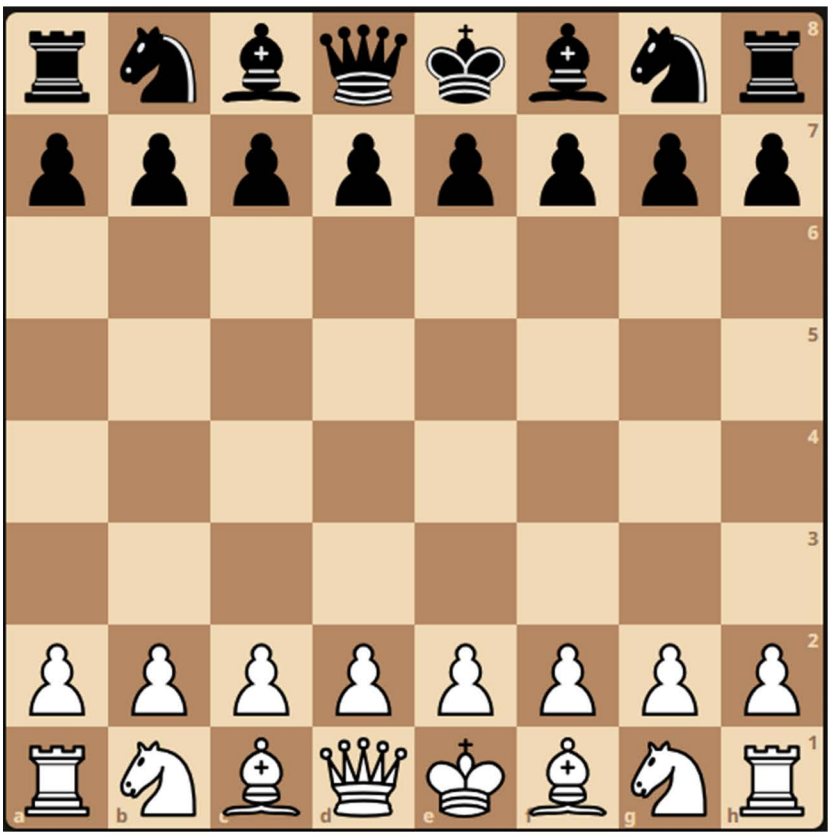
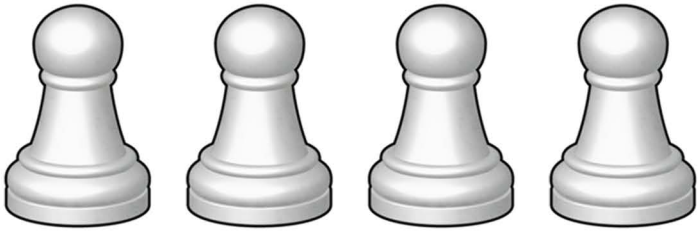
bear's Guide to CHESS

Salutations!
I am bear, a member of GETchan. There is a thread that comes up now & again; bear v GET, a ferocious game of chess. It is an exciting game of me playing all of GETchan. But it seems some members don't know how to play the game of chess. So I compiled a guide on the game of chess and my philosophy when it comes to the game!



This is a chess board. This is the starting position of every game. It always goes white first, due to Yakubian nonsense. Here we have a row of Pawns, 2 Rooks 2 Bishops, 2 Knights, a Queen and a King. Let me enlighten you on what is what.



The pawn! These are your foot soliders, your cannon fodder. They are valuable as they are expendable. Don't feel too much sympathy, as they have one job. March March March! It is both defense and offense that is their strong suit. And their greatest asset to be promoted.

 Can only move one square forward w/ exception of first move (2)
 Can only attack forward & to the sides (left & right)
 If reach last tile can become any piece besides King or Pawn

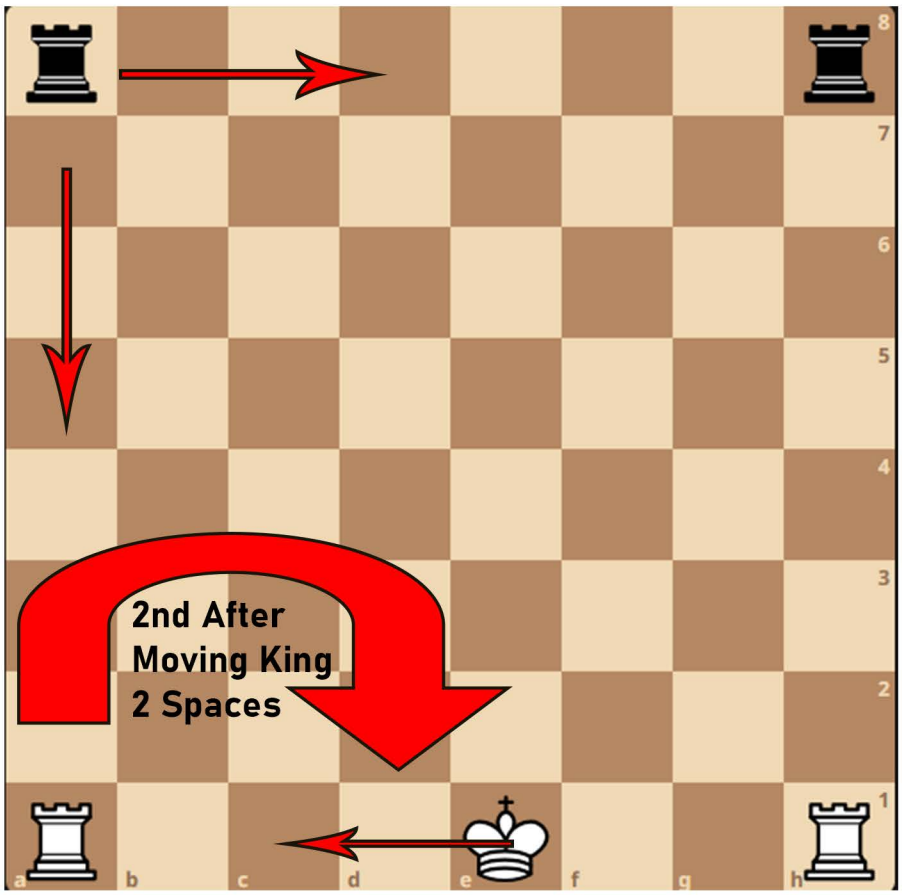
I won't lie. I forget the name of this piece. But it's the rook! This much like its shape suggests, is defense. This piece protects your outer rim. When any sneaky sneaks try to get through, bam! rooks has come into town. Don't hesiate to chuck that sucker across the room!



1st after meeting conditions

Can Move Vertically & Horizontally Across All The Board
Speacial Property Call Castling! Needs to Meet Conditions:
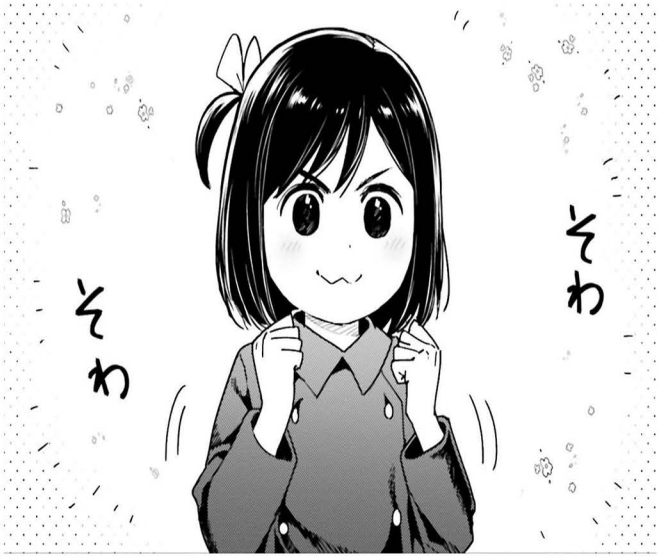
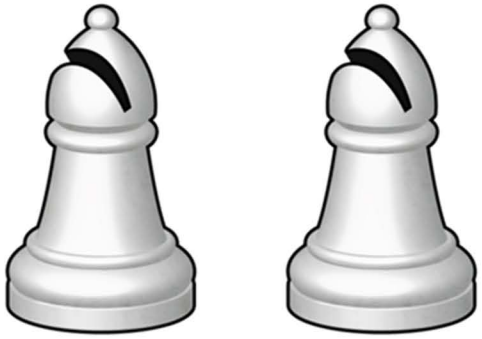
*Space Between Rook & King Empty
* Rook & King OG spots
* Not in Check
* No space under attack!





The elite snipers of the chess board. Your artilery units. It's the bishop! While still limited, it's diagonal action allows for quick & long attacks across the board. Setting things up so that they can attack is crucial

 Can move across whole board

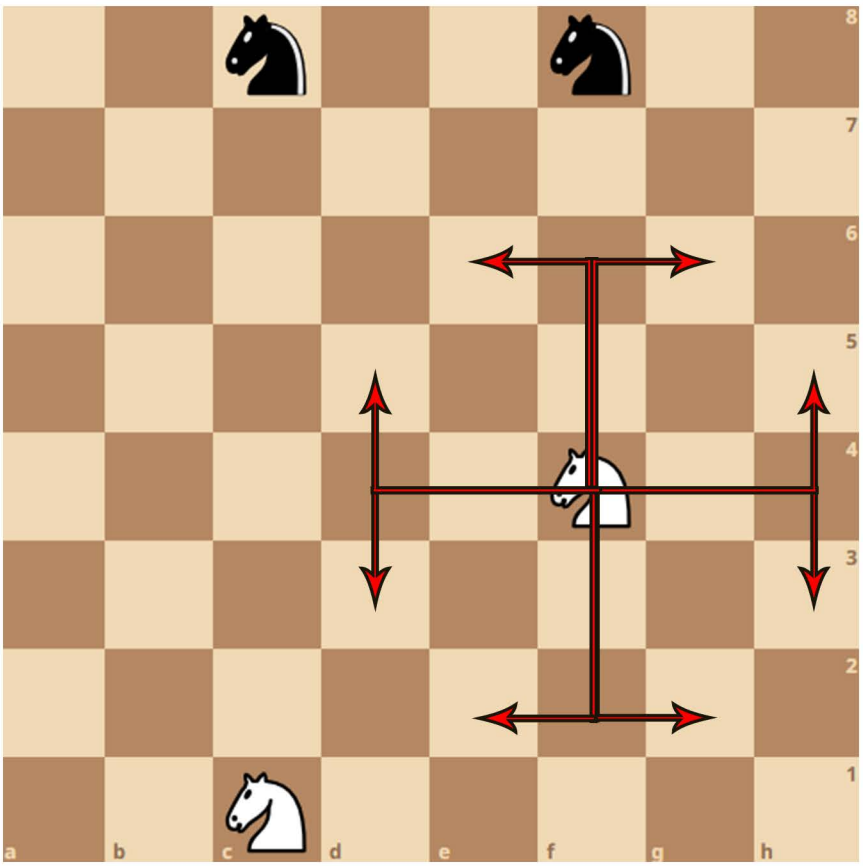
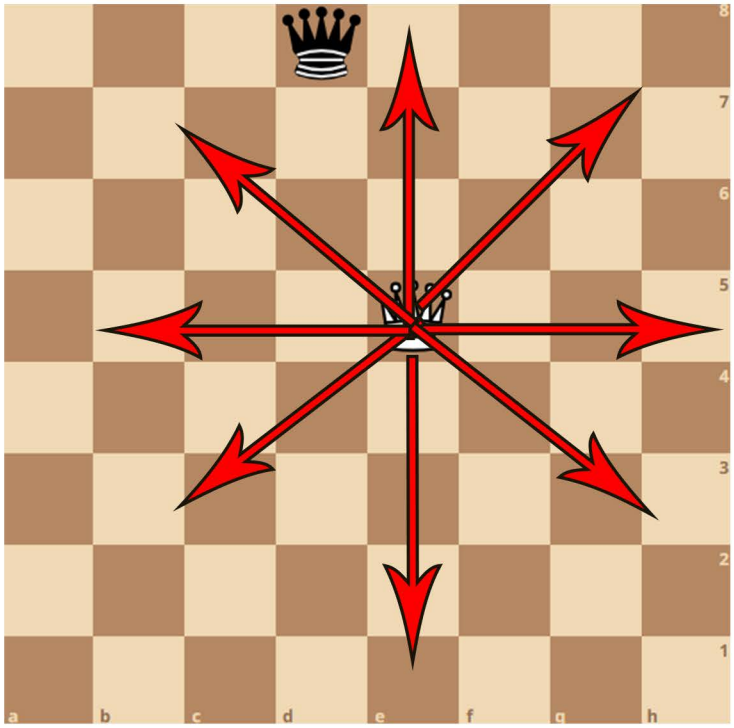
The TRUE main character of chess. The one everyone remembers. The knight! Your calvary! Your tank divisions. The piece you will move throughout the whole board. This is what you will use keep your opponent on your toes. With it's wide coverage and odd sense of movement, use this piece to it's best of it's abilities.



* It moves in L Shape in all directions
*Only moves/attacks at the end of the L

The star of the show.
The piece we all fear.
You know her.
You love her. Give it up for the Queen. The one to rule them all.
With the ability to do anything, be anything.
rook, bishop, a PAWN!
You save this piece for last and woe if you lose it.



SHE MOVES IN EVERY DIRECTION

The big whiny baby of the chess board. What you have to protect else you concede.Don't really need to worry about what happens until you are threatened. Then you really need to move him around. Make sure that all your moves don't leave him vulnerable.

 Can move in any direction!!
 Can only move 1 square at a time

There is also Chess Theory, which is the idea of optimizing chess. So you have three phases. The opening phase, the middle phase and endgame phase. The opening phase is where you get famous things such as the Queen's gambit Essentially when you are starting a game you want too choose an opening that's blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah

h blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah bla

h blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah bla

h blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah bla

h blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah bla

h blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah bla

h blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah bla

h blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah bla

h blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah blah bla

If you like to engage in the optimized game of Chess, that is fine. But for me, I am a more romantic when it comes to chess. To trust your gut. To treat the chess board like a field of battle. I am Napoleon moving his grand army.

I believe in the Heart of the Peices

Thank you for reading this book!
I hope you have a better understanding on chess & begin to engage in the bear v GET chess thread.
If you are not a usual on GETchan and somehow found this book.
Uhhh, hi. I hope you learn something about chess as well.
As always

IT'S GAME TIME
